MY GRANDMOTHER'S CAREER

By Richard Black, age 12

Our English teacher asked us all to write about the working life of a person in our family. I decided to write about my grandmother, Rose, because she is the most interesting person I know.

Rose was born over 85 years ago. She grew up in a small village where there were no cars or buses and no train station for miles. There were only bicycles and lots of horses. She didn't see her first car until she was six. She was walking to the shop in the village when a sudden noise frightened her. She turned to see a car coming into the village very fast. She stopped and looked at this amazing machine. The car drove past her very fast, but suddenly it made a strange noise and stopped.

Rose walked up to get a closer look at the car. The driver had the front of the car open. He was looking at the engine, which had wires and pipes all over the place. He kept touching different parts and then, after a few moments, he said, " Ah! That's the problem!" He pushed something hard, got back in the car and turned the key. The engine started again. As the car drove out of the village, my grandmother said to herself, " When I grow up, I'm going to work with cars."

She finished school and went to college, where she studied mechanical engineering. Then she got a job with a big car company and stayed with them for the whole of her working life. During that time, she was responsible for making several important improvements to car engine design.

Last week, I went to an airport for the first time and saw a plane take off. As it rose into the air, I made a decision.

A. It frightened her.

B. It was wonderful.

C. It was going too fast.

3. How did the driver find the problem with the car?

A. He opened the front of the car.

B. He got back into the car and started it.

C. He touched different parts of the engine.

4. What did Richard's grandmother decide as the car drove away?

A. She wanted a career working with cars.

B. She wanted to drive cars in the future.

C. She wanted to own a car when she was older.

5. What did Rose do during her career?

A. She studied mechanical engineering.

B. She improved engine design in several ways.

C. She became a mechanic with a top car company.

Test 2

A young life on the stage

Clare White is only 14, but she has already been in 10 plays in London theatres.

Clare started acting at the age of 4 in plays at her nursery school. " The plays were only for parents, and I couldn't act well then," she told me, " but for some reason, the teacher always chose me for the main part." It seems that she was tall for her age, so perhaps that was why she was chosen.

During her first year at primary school, she was in the school play. As always, she was given the main part. Most of the people who came to watch were parents, and one of those parents was called Mike Brown. He put on plays in London and he was looking for a young child to star in his next show. He thought that Clare was a perfect actor and dancer but, for his show, he needed someone who could sing, so Mike paid for lessons.

" I wasn't very good in that first play in London," she said, " but I remembered all my words, and I sang my songs quite well." The people in the theatre loved her, and someone wrote a very nice piece about her in the newspaper the next day. It was the start of her acting career.

" It's hard at time," she says. " I still have to go school, so I can only act for a few hours each week during school time. It is a little easier in the school holidays, but it will be very hard next year because I have important exams."

Perhaps Clare life is going to become more difficult. Mike has just asked her if she is interested in doing a Hollywood film this summer.

1. Why did Clare get the main parts at nursery school?
   A. Because the plays were only for parents
   B. Maybe because she was a tall girl at 4.
   C. Because she was good at acting.
2. Why did Mike Brown come to see the play in Clare's first year at primary school?
   A. He put on plays in London.
   B. He was looking for a young child to star in his play.
   C. His child was at the same school.
3. What did Mike Brown pay for?
   A. acting lessons
   B. singing lessons
   C. dancing lessons
4. How does Clare feel about her first play in London?
   A. She didn't sing very well.
   B. She didn't act very well.
   C. She forgot her words.
5. Why will next year be harder than this year for Clare?

A. Because she has to do lessons at the same time as acting.

B. Because she has to act during the school holidays.

C. Because she has to study for exams.

Test 3

She's 21- and she has been to every country in the world

There are 195 countries in the world in the United Nations list and Alexis Alford, or Lexi to her friends, has visited all of them. Very few people have done that anyway, but Lexi is only 21. By the time Lexi was 12, she knew that she wanted to be an explorer. Perhaps she became interested because her parents worked in the travel business. They taught her to find out about places before going. They also showed her how to book plane tickets and hotels. They took her to a lot of countries when she was a teenager. She went to 72, actually, by the age of 18.

Lexi did a number of jobs while she was still at school. She saved money for her later travels without her parents. But she also learnt in those years that, if you find out about foreign places before you go, you can travel the world at a low cost.

While she was visiting more than 120 countries between 18 and 21, she made some money by writing a diary and selling her photographs through her website. However, she did not need a lot of money because she travels light with only the important things in a backpack. She buys the cheapest plane tickets and doesn't stay in expensive hotels.

Of course, she had a number of problems during her travels. Sometimes police officers would not let her into a country at first, but in the end she always got the stamp in her passport. She also had some health problems on the way, including getting sick from eating bad food. She missed her home after only three months away.

She finally completed her amazing journey in North Korea on May 31st, 2019. At the time of writing, she is the youngest person to visit every country, which earns her a place in the Guinness Book of World Records.

1. How did Lexi learn about travel planning?

A. from travel agents

B. from her parents

C. from travelling before the age of 18.

2. What did she learn from her years of travelling with her parents?

A. You can do international travel cheaply.

B. You need to find out a lot of information about a country before you go there

C. You should research a new place well when you get there.

3. How did she pay for her travels?

A. with savings and with money from her websites.

B. with money that she earned through the internet

C. with savings from jobs when she was living at home

4. Why did she sometimes have trouble getting into a country?

A. She couldn't get permission at first.

B. She didn't have the correct kind of passport.

C. She had the wrong stamp in her passport.

5. Why is Lexi in the Guinness Book of World Recors?

A. Because she has visited every country in the UN list.

B. Because she visited North Korea in May 2019

C. Because she is the youngest person to visit all the countries in the world.
